Burning in Alaska

- The majority of wildland fires in Alaska are caused by careless human activity.
- Alaska's fire season is from April 1 to Aug. 31.
- Burn permits are required during fire season for all open burning, with a few exceptions.
- State laws and regulations pertaining to burning practices apply statewide all year. (AS 41.15.010-41.15-170 & 11 AAC95 Article 6)
- Burn permits are subject to burn restrictions, suspensions, and closures.
- All burn barrels require a burn permit and are subject to burn restrictions, suspensions and closures.
- Campfires and warming fires less than 3 feet x 3 feet do not need a general burn permit. Remember burn safely, have tools and water, and put the fire out before you leave.
- You are responsible for any fire you set or cause until it is 'dead out.' Fully understand and follow safe burning practices.
